

Procedures/Agenda for Masters Thesis Defense
Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research
Saint Mary's University
Updated: April 2023

The Chair makes welcoming remarks which includes:

- Introduce yourself and the role of Chair as an impartial guide to the defence process.
- Read the land acknowledgment statement:
 - We acknowledge our presence today in the unceded traditional lands of the Mi'kmaq nation. This territory is covered by the Treaties of Peace and Friendship which the Mi'kmaq and Wolastoqiyik (wool-ast-o-key-ic) peoples first signed with the British crown in 1725. The Treaties did not deal with surrender of lands and resources but in fact recognized the Mi'kmaq and Maliseet title and established the rules for what was to be an ongoing relationship.
- Identification that this event is the culmination of a huge amount of work and scholarly activity by the candidate, their supervisor, the supervisory committee and faculty as a whole.
- Introduction of the Candidate
- Introduction of the Examination Committee in the order of:
 - The External Examiner
 - Any other Examiners external to SMU
 - Faculty members external to the "home" Dept/Program (if applicable)
 - Faculty members from within the home Dept/Program
 - The Supervisor

The Chair announces the agenda which is:

- The Candidate will make a presentation on their thesis, highlighting the research problem/topic, the research approach, the findings, and the implications of the research outcomes. This presentation will be 25-30 minutes in length.
- The Candidate is then given a minute to compose themselves. During this time, audience members who wish to leave may take this opportunity to do so.
- First round of questioning occurs with the order of questioning following the order of introductions that is identified above. Identify the time allotment for each questioner (see below)
- Second round of questioning (individual Examiners may choose not to pursue a second round)
- Supplementary round of question; if necessary and time allowing. This round of questions should be for clarification of previous comments/answers only.
- The Candidate and audience will then be asked to leave the examination room/video conference while the Examination Committee deliberates. The candidate should stay in the vicinity of the Examination room or their computer (if they are defending virtually).

- If the student is defending virtually, they should be either: 1) placed in a virtual breakout room (can be found under account preferences) or 2) an arrangement is made with the student where the supervisor will contact them via phone or email when deliberation has been completed so they can re-join the virtual meeting.
- The Examination Committee deliberates and come to a conclusion on the thesis examination. The Examination Committee will be assessing the acceptability of the Thesis as a written document and the acceptability of the Candidate in the Defence of the Thesis.
- The Candidate will be asked back into the room (or reconnected to the video conference) to hear the outcome of the examination process.

Details on the questioning period:

- The question period (all rounds) should normally last no more than 1.5 hours. The time allotment for each Examiner within each round will be determined by the Chair before the defence and will be defined largely by the number of Examiners.
 - For example, if there are four Examiners, the first round of questions could be 15 minutes each for a total of 1 hour. The second round would be then a maximum of 7.5 minutes for each Examiner, assuming all had questions. If time is allowing for the Supplementary round, each Examiner would be limited to one or two brief questions.
 - If there are five Examiners, the first round could be 15 minutes each for a total of 1.25 hours. The second round then would be then brief with each Examiner given an average of 3 minutes, assuming all had questions.
 - The Chair has latitude to give slight favour to the External Examiner in the distribution of time allotment for questioning.

It is the responsibility of the Chair to ensure that the questioning takes place in an organized and fair manner. They should discourage a debate among Examiners and that an Examiner does not interrupt/intervene in the questioning of another Examiner.

Details on the Deliberations:

- The Chair will ask each Examiner in turn (in the order identified during the Introductions above) to make brief comments on their assessment of:
 - The thesis as a written document
 - The performance of the Candidate in defending the thesis
- The Committee must then come to a consensus or majority vote on a Recommendation on the thesis. Please see an explanation of the possible recommendations below.

At the end of the thesis, the Chair must:

- Complete Thesis Defence Report and return it to FGSR.
